Business, but Unwilling to Aid in the Success of Mackey's Forgery-The Foreign Af-lairs Committee in Session Again.

Washington, May 23 .- The house foreign affairs committee again to-day took up the investigation of the Peruvian company. The ex-assistant secretary of state was the only witness, but all his knowledge had been obtained while acting as interpreter between Blaine and the Credit Industriel company, when the latter gentleman visited the state department in a vain effort to secure the intervention of the United States in behalf of Peru. This gentleman, though representing the Credit Industriel company as its agent, made a thorough investigation, and prepared a statement of facts upon which the secretary could act. He was specially charged with this matter in connection with the preparation of dispatches, and with the exception of the secretary, was the most competent person to explain most competent person to explain the meaning of every word in those dispatch-es. He was very highly esteemed in the de-partment, and on account of his high standexplain ing and experience as a diplomat, he was selected as the commissioner to the South American states. THE DEADLOCK.

The Buginning of a Probably Long Fight-What the Period Correspondence of The Constitution WASHINGTON, May 20.-In the house began Washington, May 20.—In the house began this morning what may be a long and stubborn fight. Mr. Calkins, of Indiana, aspires to be a leader. His position as chairman of the committee on elections gives him a prominence his unaided ability would never have attained. He is trying to make capital for home use, as he aspires to the republican nomination for governor of his state. The ousting of Chalmers has emboldened him to greater confidence and he sailed into the Mackey Dibble contest this morning with an appealing air of determination. The democrats do not intend to have to is case considered on forged testimony. They ask its recommittal. Phis is all they ask, and this they will have or block the republican game by the continual destruction republican game by the continual destruction of a quorum vote. Mr. Randall is alive to the finest parliamentary points, and will direct the minority with consummate skill. THE SENATE IN A TANGLE. The Court of Claims-Geneva Award-The Cont.

Washington, May 23.—In the senate Mr. Pugh moved to reconsider the final vote on the passage of the five per cent land bill, and as the measure had been sent to the house, he coupled with the motion a request for a recoupled with the inotion a request for a re-turn of the bill to the senate. The motion prevailed—yeas 26, nays 22. Upon a motion to reconsider this vote, the senate became badly tangled among points of order. A question was asked of the president pro tem Davis, in reply to which he began: "The court would say." Being apprised of his error by a hearty burst of laughter, the chair answered the onery. Finally the motion to reconsider the query. Finally the motion to reconsider was voted down. THE COURT OF CLAIMS.

At 2 o'clock the senate proceeded with the unfinished business, the house bill for the the Credit Industriel company as its agent, had only sought intervention in the interest of humanity, not of his company. Upon all other points Mr. Hill was profoundly ignorant. The witness first heard of the missing papers after he left the department. He never saw them. He certainly thought he would have remembered them if he had ever seen them, and it was hardly probable that they would come direct to the department without his seeing them.

The witness was asked in reletion to the status of Trescott in the state department at the time he was apparently employed by the department, in connection with the preparation of dispatches touching the Chili-Peruvian matter, and replied that Trescott had just returned from China, where he had been one of the commissioners, and pending the settlement of that matter he was consulted in regard to the Chili-Peruvian matter, and as a thorough investigation, and prepared a statement of facts upon which the secretary goold set. He was created to the secretary goold set when the secretary goold secretary go distribution of the Geneva award, and Mr. Call addressed the senate. The discussion was continued by Messrs. DUELING FROM THE BENCH. St. Louis Judge Holds a Critic to Personal Respon sibility.

St. Louis, May 23.—A few days ago an editorial appeared in the Evening Chronicle, of this city, criticising Judge Laughlin, of the criminal court, and the manner of doing business in that court. Yesterday Stanley Waterloo, editor of the Chronicle, was cited to appear before the court to show cause why he should not be committed for contempt. Waterloo's counsel denied that the court had jurisdiction in the premises, that time will demonstrate that you are our Whereupon Judge Laughlin said: friends in this country, and we believe that time will demonstrate that you are our friends. Our people are beginning to feel it more and more every day. We are beginning Whereupon Judge Laughlin said: There being a difference of opinion on that point, he would waive the rights of the court in the matter, and as an individual he would give Waterloo until after sundown to retract the obnoxious article through the columns of the Chronicle, or furnish him the name of the 9 and 10 o'clock last night a letter was deliv- starting.

plead surprise when we next meet, you are now notified to make such preparations for an emergency as to you may seem best. I shall make it my business to see you soon.
"HENRY D. LAUGHLIN."

The contents of this letter were not known until 10 o'clock this morning, when it was determined by Waterloo and his friends to publish it, and the probabilities are that unless the friends of both parties can prevent a meeting there will be a bloody encounter on the street soon, as both men have plenty of party.

Late last night it was discovered that the The result of to-day's work was a republican back down at 3 o'clock, when a motion on their side to adjourn brought from the democrats applause and derisive laughter. The only chance for Calkins is to call in his stragglers and his disabled and rallying the green backers around him to storm the barriers to a full vote. This is a labor worthy of his energy and if he does it he ought to have a chance to be sacrificed on the gubernatorial altar in Indiana. The prospective deadlock will enliven the house out of the opppressive dullness of its past ten days. Whenever these hitches occur there come occasionally bursts of passion and sallies of wit which entertain the outside world as it peers down on the stubborn opponents. A night session, or anything out of the congressional routine is gladly welcomed by the several thousand citizens who have nothing to do but watch the great American congress.

Around the hotel lobbies to-day the impending dead lock is the principal topic of gossip. Even the republican members and their sympathizers see that the democrats mean business, and that the only way to beat them is to procure a quorum without them. This letter will probably have gone over the slow mail and gotten into type before they do this. I have yet to hear a democrat express author of the offensive criticism was ex-Judge Horatio M. Jones. This morning, from the bench of the criminal court, Judge Laughlin said that the situation had materially changed.
He knew the name of the writer of the article.

At the session of yesterday Bishop Parker, one of the new bishops, presided for the first time, and was extensively congratulated. The report of the committee on episcopacy was interesting as showing the manner of raising funds for the support of the bishops, and the efficiency with which the fund is collected. ALBANY, May 23.—The special committee appointed to examine certain life insurance receiverships, made its report to-day. It is very lengthy and condemns the management of several of the companies in severe terms. It says of the Universal North America and the companies associated with the latter: "It may be said that swindler may be said that swindler succeeded swindler, and company swallowed company, until the last one, empty and denuded of all available, assets, fell into a receiver's hands. The report says that among the scores and hundreds of orders of court made in various legal proceedings connected with the administration of these trusts, a vast majority were signed by one judge. Extraordinary blanks were prepared by the counsel for the receiver, one of which bore the name of this judge printed in anticipation of future needs. Especially was it true that the orders directing money. money to be paid were signed by him to the almost entire exclusion of his associate. This fact in and of itself would reflect favorably upon his industry, and upon his williagness to assume the responsibility and would warrant no discrediting imputa-tion, but the very expense and delay which are the most questionable incidents of receiv erships, are inseparably connected with these orders. Many of the individual payments seemed wasteful and reckless. None of them could ever have been made, and no doubtful act or line of policy on the part of any receiver could have possessed any efficiency except for this judicial sanction. The report, offer turther comments on the course of after further comments on the course of Judge Westbrook, adds: "Such an official in such circumstances was not justified in repeatedly signing orders that will not stand the test of a close inspection, although they were consented to by those among whom the money was divided. To say that such consent relieves the judge from responsible and sent relieves the judge from responsible and attentive action, is to assert an unworthy and intolerable conception of the nature of judi-cial functions and attitude."

TROUBLESOME TIMES.

On Account of the Marriage of a Jew to an Episco

Dallas, May 2.3.—The Jews of this city are preparing for the observance of the feast of weeks. There is some trouble among the Israelites. Last Sunday Rabbi Sohul united in marriage Solomon Wolf, a prominent Jewish merchant, and Miss Callie Stephenson, a member of the Episcopal church, she renouncing her faith and embracing that of her husband. The young ladies of the congregation, Emanuel, objected that the marriage was not publicly announced as is the custom of the Jews, and a great deal of talk was the result. At a meeting at Temple Emanuel, last night, the rabbi defined his course from the pulpit by saying that he was the rabbi, and as such understood his business, and would defend his manhood in any manner necessary, which was taken to mean that he was ready which was taken to mean that he was ready for a fight. This announcement had effect to quiet matters for the present least, but it is believed it will be renewed.

The Case of Atlanta Merchants in Griffin-The Activ Enterprises of Middle Georgia-A Proposed Railroad-Athe:s Water Works and Aristocracy - Artesian Albany.

Special Dispatch to The Constitution

GRIEFIN, May 23 .- In the case of the City Council vs. Almond and Max ell, the two representatives of an Atlanta firm, before the council this afternoon on appeal from the city court, the judgment of the city court fining the aforesaid gentlemen was reversed, upon the ground that they had violated no law of the city. Judge F. D. Dismuke was for the defense-a good lawyer and hard to get away GRIFFIN, May 22.—The quotation, There is a tide in the affairs of men, which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune," very pertinently applies to Griffin's present pressing demand for better facilities with which to keep pace with the swelling tide of progress which is beginning to pour in from every quarter. Something has held us in the back-ground long enough. The spirit of lethargy no longer pervades our community, fame and fortune beckons us on, and to simply and fortune beckons us on, and to simply say that we are going on but tamely expresses it, and if we don't climb the golden stair before 'Gabriel blows his solo, we'll see you later with more fruit and flowers than ever graced any place but Eden. Of course everybody in the United States has heard and is still hearing something about Griffin, Ga. The name of Griffin is getting to be a household word even among the Canadians, some of whom have bodght land adjacent to the place and will become citizens. The fruit growing interest is still advancing, and the fact is developing itself that this is "the section," the most successful porion of Georgia or the whole southern country, perhaps the United States, in fact America, to pursue such enterprises. Cun-America, to pursue such enterprises. Cun-ningham's 540 acres of the different varieties of fruits speaks volumes, and the vineclad hills of Woodruff's fruit farm heralds this as the garden spot of the world.

John Keller's sixty acres of solid grape cuttings, set out last fall, opposite the Woodruff farm, are growing off beautifully, and in two years time will be bearing quantities of grapes second to none in the country. There are numerous other parties here who are en-gaging in fruit culture as a business, and letgaging in fruit culture as a business, and letters are received daily, and people are coming here from different parts of the country to inquire into this sudden outburst of fortune with the intention of taking a hand. It is to be hoped that the fruit-growers' convention which meets in Atlanta next Thursday will effect some kind of an arrangement by which the crop can be moved. Griffin will send a full delegation, and I think, from the manifest interest being taken in this matter that there will be quite a representative gathering of the yeomanry of old Georgia. We look forward with more than usual interest to the action of this convention.

A communication was published in last Sunday's Daily News by some enterprising gentleman touching upon the importance of the connecting link between Griffin and the Macon and Brunswick railroad extension. Macon and Brunswick railroad extension. The question has been agitated for sometime, and is now assuming proportions which begin to look like business. The idea that a place the size of Griffin, possessing attractions second to none in Georgia, should let the opportunity of building about 13 miles of railroad which would so materially increase her wealth and population pass would put us three centuries behind the age in point of progress, but we are going to build this road; first, because we can and second, because we are obliged to if we want to continue to improve As fast as the facts are unearthed in regard to this enterprise they will be given to the public so that the vast multitude who are desirous of making this their future home may have ample the vast multitude who are desirous of making this their future home may have ample time to pack their little calico trunks.

Last Saturday was certainly a red letter in the history of the spring dry goods trade in Griffin. The fact that our merchants are unquestionably the leaders in low prices for this immediate section had been pretty extensively advertised by means of circulars and through the newspapers, which had the desired effect of waking up the country people for miles around. No use in talking, people are bound to go where they can buy goods the cheapest. The trade was not confined to any one store in particular, but from what I can learn the patronage was general. So the learn the patronage was general. So the noted dry goods war which was recently waged here turns out to be a blessing in disguise for all.

Abel Wright, the most successful German carp culturist in Georgia, made a shipment of one thousand young carp by express to-day. He also bas large orders to fill for Michigan, Texas and Mississippi. This is something of an item itself, when young carp are bringing twenty dollars a hundred. (It might be well to note the fact that Mr. Wright is a resident of Griffin.)

ATHENS WATER WORKS.

Special Correspondence of The Constitution.

Athens, May 22.—Messrs. Yancey and Talmadge have just returned from Charlotte, where they went to examine her system of water works, and are very favorably impressed with them. They will report back to the council to accept the proposition of the Holley system, which is to supply the city with water, allowing forty hydrants, for the annual rental of $2,000, with the privilege of buying at the end of every ten years, the value of property to be assessed by arbitrators.

And still they come. 'Tis but natural, though, that Atlanta should turn to her dear old mother, Athens, for rest and comfort, and gladly she welcoms them. Now it is Alex R. I rode through Cobham recently. It caused a feeling of sadness to see the dissecting hand of time at work upon the once grand homes of our departed sristocracy. Many of these elegant grounds are being divided into smaller lots to meet the demands for "up-town" property. A pretty cottage has just been built on a part of Dr. Crawford Long former lot, and is now the house of Mr. McKee, one of our progressive merchants. It was pleasant to see the lovely home of the late Chief Justice Lumpkin still standing, a beautiful monument to the refinement and taste of that great man. So well is it preserved by its present owner, Colonel A. K. Childs.

ARTESIAN ALBANY.

ARTESIAN ALBANY.

Special Correspondence of The Constitution.

ALBANY, May 21.—Notwithstanding the copious rains we have had of late, our farmers are beginning to look wistfally to the signs for more. Our thirsty soil drinks up a deluge so quickly that but few traces are left after a short season of warm sunshine. Out cutting has been going on actively for the past two weeks, but a great portion of the crop is still unmatured. The corn crop is par excellence, the best prospect so far seen in this section since the war. Even on the thin gray lands around Albany, the staik looks remarkably green and vigorous. June being regarded, however, the critical month for corn in this latitude, it is rather early yet to forecast the outcome of this crop. If it only holds its own, without any very serious drawback, the grain and provision problem in southwest Georgia will be fairly solved for one year at least. Several of our large planters in town yesterday expressed the opinion that the late cold wave had done very little if any damage to the cotton, most of it being large enough to changes. Every day, "from early morn till dewy eve," and far into the night, crowds flock around the fountain to quaff from its pellucid and beautiful stream. "The best water in the state of Georgia" is the invariable and universal verdict. Hundered of gallons are hauled away every day to supply the country around. The railroads likewise take on a supply on every outgoing train. It is something remarkable how increasingly palatable it becomes to a habitual user. Its detergent properties too, are unsurpassed, and a bath in the water is more than a luxury. a luxury.

Albany is glad to note that Congressman H. G. Turner has secured an appropriation of $25,000 for the Filmt. This is $10,000 of in excess of the last appropriation; $15,000 of this appropriation goes to the work bet veen Albany and Baintridge, and $10,000 between Albany and Montezuma. Colonel P. M. New Switzerland, Ga., May 21, 1882.—
The traveler on the Air Line railroad has recently noticed a beautiful Swiss cottage on the leftside of the track going north about two miles and a half from Mount Airy in Habersham county. This building was erected by the Richmond and Danville company and is intended as an "immigrants home." The cottage is a beautiful structure, built after a miniature model owned by one of the Swiss colonists who brought it over from the old country. It is thoroughly Swiss in every detail and is said to be the handsomest depot between Atlanta and New York. On this point, however, I am not posted, though I know I never saw a prettier building. In the absence of any information as to technical names for this style of much lair the country. "What is considered a sign-of wealth mong the Swiss farmers?"

"What is considered a sign-of wealth mong the Swiss farmers?"

"Well, a man over there worth $1000,000 is though, so you can see that we have here only the better class of people."

"Tell me something you are doing here."

"We all strive first for good land. This hes cost us about three and four dollars an acre. Then we want good cows and we always have them. We have a number of men who are paying particular attention to sheep raising. One man has now three hundred sheep grazing, and will make money by it. This same man brought out $5,000 with him and has really a fine place started. He herds his sheep regularly, gives them the best grazing lands, and gets the best prices for his mutton. We think these hills furnish as good grasses for sheep as any in the world, and I know Eugland never produced better mutton than we can raise right here."

"Yes, without any exception. They are not used to as big a country as this, and the sight of some produced by the Richmond and Danville company and is intended as an "inmingrants home." Yes, some white labor, but no colored hands are wanted. Somehow, they don't like darkies. They are poor hands at using an ax and have to get these mountain people to aid them in building their fences. One peculiar thing about this peculiar section is that there is not much bottom land. There are probably 200 acres around here, but it is scattered. We like the climate and country, but it takes 200 acres around here, but it is scattered. We like the climate and country, but it takes a certain time to get used to the American style of working. We farm, of course, on a different plan altogether. We are used to small farms. If a man has fifteen acres, he keeps it in a high state of cultivation and makes it produce as much as fifty ordinary acres here."

A SIDE THROUGH THE COLONY.

Mr. Biedermann took me on a drive through Mr. Biedermann took me on a drive through the colony. I was surprised to find such wonderful improvements going on as were everywhere visible. The sheep raiser was building barns, clearing land, while his entire place was inclosed in a substantial wire fence. Another man who brought $5,000 has really a beautiful home, and is going to make a specialty of fine cows. He has a Jersey bull, and has built every convenience for teaching milk and butter as cool as a refriger. keeping milk and butter as cool as a refriger ator could make. There is another Switze who has built a house that cost $1,200. He has also invested in a mill, and will run it in connection with his other interests.

As soon as Mr. Biedermann can get a lit tle aid, he wants to finish the church already started at the depot here. These people are in a strange land, and must have some place to meet every Sunday. The railroad has built a fine immigrant's homes and that is their share. A subscription has been spoken of, but no definite plans have been taken to complete the church. As soon as the people here can write and assure those at home that there is a bona fide place to worship Sundays a fine depot a store and all worship Sundays, a fine depot, a store and all the requisites to a community, others will commence to flock here.

There has been no more important step taken than that of introducing this colony of honest workers into our state. It ought to be hailed with delight by every true Georgian who feels an interest in the development of the country.

BROW V'S IRON BITTERS

That is what a great many people are doing. They don't know just what is the matter, but they have a combination of pains and aches, and each month they grow worse.

The only sure remedy vet found is Brown's Iron BITTERS, and this by rapid and thorough assimilation with the blood purifies and enriches it, and rich, strong blood flowing to every part of the system repairs the wasted tissues, drives out disease and gives health and strength.

This is why Brown's IRON BITTERS will cure kidney and liver diseases, consumption, rheumatism, neuralgia, dyspepsia, malaria, intermittent fevers, &c.

203 S. Paca St., Baltimore, Nov. 28, 1881. I was a great sufferer from Dyspepsia, and for several weeks could eat nothing and was growing weaker every day. I tried Brown's Iron Bitters, and am happy to say I now have a good appetite, and am getting stronger.

SCROFULA

After having been troubled for seven months with Scrofula in the form of uncers covering nearly the entire surface of both legs, and having tried the usual remedies with no relief, I resorted to SSS, and am now glad to say that six bottles taken in about two months has effectually cured me.

A. S. LENFESTY, 48 Decatur St.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 18, 1882 ATLANTA, Ga., March 18, 1882.

I have suffered from Scrofula 17 years. The disease being mostly confined to my less and ankles my shin bones were covered with large Ulcers and one mass of rotten firsh, and the odor almost unberable. All remedies and treatments failed. At last I began taking S S S, continuing for sbont four months under the supervision of a physician Previously to taking S S I at times could scarcely walk about. Now I can walk all day, and I have to thank S, S, S, and it only for my cure.

THOMAS MCFARLAND,

54 Foundry Street, Atlanta, Ga.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., May 14th, 1882, Some thirty years ago there lived in Montgomery, Ala., a young man who was terribly afflicted with Scrofula. Atter being treated for a long time by medical profession of this town, with no beneficial results, he commenced taking 8 SS. After pensitently taking it for two months he was cured Being acquainted, and in constant intercourse with him for twenty years thereafter, I can testify that the disease never made its return.

Our science has not made known a combination equal to S. S. S. for Skin or Blood Diseases, says T. L. Massinburg, Ph. G. Macon, Ga.

EASLEYS. S. C., April 29, 1880. I have had remarkable success with S. S. S.; have cured several cases permanently in a very short time. One case which I am now treating was given up to die, and after using three bottles is so far recovered that I think one more bottle will cure her. The most remarkable case of all was a lady with medulary etheer of the womb, for whom I had no hore whatever. After using one bottle, I am satisfied she will soon be cured.

I feel it a duty I owe suffering humanity to addmy testimony to the merits of 8 8.8.

After suffering from the worst blood diseases for more than two years, being treated by several eminent physicians, with no perceptfble change for the better, confined to my room and bed the greater part of the time, my body covered with copper colored sores from the size of a pea to that of a silver half dollar, I was well nigh in despair. Finally I commenced taking S. S. S. In a short time I began to improve in flesh, and all the sores healed and I feel and know that I was well, and to 8.8 8 must the credit be given of my entire restoration to health. I have not taken a dose for more than six months, and am as free from sores or blemish as any

"Ye see, our pa'son took a notion to go fer the sinners, bruisers, cockaghters and them, and he preaches a sermon fer 'em, and wants 'em fer to come to the mercy seat and lay hold. They were all there, and he made a powerful impression."

"Caught some of them, eh?" "Ketched 'em all. They railied right up and confessed. Well, then the pa'son he says they must prove their faith by their works, and do su'thin' fer the kirk afore they backslided. And that's what made the trouble.'

"Wouldn't the do it?" "Deed they would! They wanted to do it all! The pa'son he said they would have an entertainment, and each sinner must tell what religion had done fer him and what he was willin' fer to do fer religion. The night came around and the wimmin cooked some cake and they had clam chowder and a grab bag. Some of the gals squeezed lemons in a was tub and started a well, and others humped around with chances for rings in pies and one thing another. They had singin,' and Bub Foos squirted wind into his flute and a girl read a poem on anether girl that got ketched in the snow and froze stiff before they could get her out. and froze stiff before they could get her out. Oh! they had it bigger'n a wolf."

"Well, what did the converted do?"

"Hold on till I tell yer. After the godly had got through prankin', the pa'son gits up and allows that it is good to be there. Then herpiles on what the christian's duty is, and fetches up against the toughs, and says that he hopes his new friends haven't forgotten the Lord and the mortgage, and wants their subscriptions. Then up jumps Jim Feely and Hen Frisbee and says they're willin fer to chip in with the rest, and they fetches out a couple of piller cases with game cocks in. The fight is to be fer the benefit of the church."

"The cock tight! They proposed to fight the chickens and the crowd to bet, one-half the winnin's fer the kirk and one half fer the owner of the winnin's fer the kirk and one half fer the owner of the gate money to go to the mortgage and ten per cent of the side bets fer the church!"

"How did that take?"

"That isn't all ad Berry got on a chair and allows that he had opened a faro bank in the bible class room and was willin' to play agin' anybody that wanted to drop a chip for the cause. Bill Mc Feeters brought in a keg of beer and other fixin's, and announced that he would make a deduction to Ch istians and charge nothing for the pa'son!"

"Not us! They was all in earnest, and Bennett says he w a willin' to do a wind up with the parson, lettin' him use his bare hands and Bennett put on the gloves. Berry allowed that Bennett didn't dare make him that offer, and that led to words. Mc Feeters stiffened Bennett with the sign of 'God Bless Our Home,' and Wasson drove Mac onten the edifice with 'Suffer Little Chidren to Come unto the gloves. Were you there?"
The old man paused a moment and looked at his interlocu or.

The Coming Day.

It is not at all surprising that thoughtful menstrangers to the wonderful advantages of the southern states, should be so enthused when the faces are for the first time revealed to them. Exemptions from many physical drawbacks and hindrances, especially those of climate and seasons, which are enjoyed by our highly favored section, should of itself attract the notice of every man who is seeking a permanent home. But when we take into the account the vast range of production so justly vaunted by the south—the value of these staples and their perennial influence and value in the markets of the world we must feel assured, all local partiality out of the question, that we have a land more highly favored than has fallen to the lot of other mortals.

local partiality out of the question, that we have a land more highly favored than has fallen to the lot of of ther mortals.

We, of course, have our troubles and visitations which te-t at times our management as well as our endurance. These will yield to persevering preventive effort. Our deluges of rain which at times pour down on our undulating lands we are beginning to courteract successfully by a constantly improving system of hillside ditching or draining. In the last thirty years we have made the most remarkable improvements on this idea. So in the protection and fertilizing of our bottom lands, by saving from deportation the surface soil and retaining the sedimentary parts of the overflow. But how to save the millions that have in so many years been swept from the grasp of our toiling cottom raisers by the incursions of that terrible pest, the army worm, has baffled the resources and efforts of our most ingenious and determined minds. Until very recently, the hope that we might ever be able to withstand this trightful visitor and successfully resist its ravages, has been as feasible as the attempt to stay the terrific march of cholera or yellow fever. We say until recently—for now it is an ascertained fact, beyond all dubiety, that there is no more necessity for the loss of a crop of cottom by the "worm" than by the lightnings of heaven.

Upon the streets of Atlanta, any day, may be seen one of the most unpretentious devices that man ever used to effect such wondrous results. Mr. Jackson Warner, of Texas, has invented and not costing, for the outfit, more than 25, by which one hand and a mule can effectually destroy the

A doting parent furnished a season ticket, and every afternoon the young lady presented her rescuer with cut flowers and bon bons, while enjoying a charming tete-a-tete each trip. The acquaintance, so romantically begun, ripened into love, which soon led up to the inevitable marriage. The young hero was assisted to a position as bank cashier and all were happy.

In the heat of debate many things are said. even by white-headed elders, which in cooler moments would doubtless be modified. But to-day not only litera scripta manent, but the spoken word is cast in type. The speeches on the question now agitating the Presbyterian assembly are full of interest not only to it, but to the general public as they are daily There is not only curiosity but presented. deep feeling to see what the result will be of so bitter a struggle in a church assembly Both sides have their partisans, but there is evidence that Mr. Leyburn's views that "this is a new era, and we must be prepared for the wake of the dawning day and leave the night behind us," meet the approval of nearly every young man in the assembly and of some of

MR. STEPHENS AND THE DEMOCRACY At last Mr. Stephens has spoken over his own name with no uncertain sound. He stands squarely with the organized democracy of the state against the republicans and independents. He says distinctly and in terms that he will abide the democratic nomination, and stand by the edict of the convention. If it nomi nates him he will run-if it does not he will retire and support its nominee. This is as it should be. The democratic party, in its organized capacity, saved the state from radical rule-it has given it twelve years of peace. prosperity and rehabilitation-and it is entitled to command the situation and have its edicts respected as final. It has the right to make the platform and to name the candidates. These rights Mr. Stephens concedes in the fullest and frankest way. No man in the state stands squarer in the democratic ranks than Mr. Stephens. The attitude of the "coalitionists" in the reading of this letter is pitiably ridiculous. This movement has been a doomed failure from the first day. It has gone on from worse to worse, its promoters bewildered and the people massed solidly against it, until now it closes its career, having nominated a man for governor who publicly declares that he is in the fullest sympathy with the organized democracy, and will abide by the action of the democratic convention. If the convention doesn't nominate their candidate they will be without one. If it does they will have to run a man who is publicly pledged to the very party they are pledged to overthrow. Never in the history of the state has there been such a travesty and farce as this coalition. May we never see its like again.

NEW SWITZERLAND, GA

According to Commissioner Kapp, Castle Garden, and the United States bureau of statistics, the average value of every immigrant is $1,125, and in addition to this each immigrant averages $150 in cash. By this means it is estimated that eight and threequarters billions-not millions-dollars have been added to the wealth of this country since 1820.

How much of this has come to the south To how much of this was the latent power of the north due during the war? There are no means in existence of determining the answers to these questions; but does any one doubt that to the first the answer is little, and to the second much? It is a sad fact that the apathy and indolence of the southern states has in the past lost to us hundreds of millions

To-day there is no reason why the great part of this wealth should not be attracted here. As stated in these columns time and again, there is no finer, richer, cheaper, ountain and valley, woodland and pasture e side by side in untouched fertility.

Every one interested in the stable inde pendence and prosperous increase of Georgia and her wealth, should take a deep interest in such experiments as that which will for the first time to-day become known to every Georgian as New Switzerland. In a quiet and un obtrusive way a colony of some eighty persons have settled down in northern Georgia, not on what we call our best lands, but on land approaching in character their native hillsides. These 80 are quiet, honest and industrious people who have already spent here some $7,500 apiece. They will be a help to the people round about them by showing by example how high cultivation on a small area can be made more profitable than the working of large farms in a slack way.

These Swiss will each one be the best possi ble immigration agent the state could have, and they will bring the best possible class of immigrants here; but there is a wide field for work, and if the railroads of the state would combine as the roads of the northwest do we would have no difficulty in adding so largely THE signal service bureau report indicates to our resources, as Mr. Biedermann has already done.

A TYPICAL INDEPENDENT.

We cheerfully direct the attention of the interested in the phenomena of our current politics to the remarkable figure of General James R. Chalmers, who recently disappeared from the halls of congress a violent and bloodthirsty democrat to reappear in Mississippi a rabid independent and a confessed ally of the republican party. Our readers doubtless have a vivid recollection of Chalmers. He will be remembered as the person who was in the habit of mounting his desk in the house of representatives and breathing fire and brimstone against the republicans, Upon occasion he would flutter from his desk to the floor, flap his knee-pans together, crow loudly, and declare that he was willing and anxious to eat a raw vankee every day in the week and two on Sundays. Chalmers refused to be reconstructed. His voice was always for war. He was what the Dkolona ass would call a "Southron," and a southron, as may well be supposed, is a very warm piece of meat. At any rate Chalmers was warm-hot in fact-and he lost no opportunity of embar-States have proved conclusively that such rassing the efforts of honest and patriotic men in both sections to bring about a genuine and permanent reconciliation between the sec tions. Whenever peace seemed imminent Chalmers and a few others of his kidney would caper wildly forth with their senseless rhetoric and supply the republican organs of the north with column after column of effective campaign material; and this has been going on year after year until it has seemed that the greatest burdens the democratic party had to bear were Chalmers and men of his caliber. Nothing however, could daunt Chalmers. He breathed fire through his nostrils and efected volumes of smoke from his smouldering bowels, and the swash pucklers who regard such exhibitions with lelight named him "The Game cock"-a very pretty name for a very fine rooster.

At the last congressional election, however Chalmers and his friends resorted to practices that did not receive the approval of honest democrats. They threw out a large number of ballots cast for Lynch, the colored candidate, because the printer had inadvert ently placed dashes between the names of the andidates. The Constitution took occasion o denounce this business at the time, and but for the assassination of Garfield, which placed a partisan administration in power and renewed the strenuous zeal of party feeling, no democrat would have voted to keep Chalmers in the seat to which Lynch was lected. Certainly, there was no reason, under any circumstances, why they should filibuster to keep him in his seat.

As a result the fiery Chalmers was com pelled to make way for Lynch, and now he has fluttered from the extreme of democratic ourbonism into the camp of the republicans. A more amusing episode probably never occurred. It is valuable in its relations to our risibilities, so to speak, and important as un covering the methods and intentions of inde pendentism. As a candidate for office—as a etitioner for the aid of the party in keeping nim in a seat to which he was entitled by egal fraud, Chalmers was a democratic ire-eater; as a candidate for office on the independent line, he sympathizes with a stalwart administration, solicits republican support, and announces that he expects the idsof little Mr. Billy Chandler. Chalmers and Chandler! In the history of our political volution there has been but one other such ombination, and that was when Farrow laid his shaggy brow upon the bulging bosom of the independent colonels. This attitude of Chalmers ought to go reat way towards disembarrassing the liberal and progressive democratic party of Mississippi under the lead of Lamar, who has been foremos among those who have worked and labored behalf of permanent conciliation. We have no doubt the republican organs will wel come their new recruit. "As I understand it," says Chalmers, "the republicans will help to put me in power." Having ousted him from a seat to which he was not entitled, they will now, by the aid of colored men, whose votes he has been instrumental in suppress ing, endeavor to send him back to congress To fit himself for the part he has to play, Chalmers has moved into a new district. 'I date this," he says in a recent letter, "from Sardis, Miss., which I have selected as my future home." Could anything be more sweetly innocent?

If there is any virtue in Mississippi democracy, Chalmers will never have an opportunity to figure as a republican on the floor where he has so often fired the northern heart. In Georgia, the independents and their coalition have been repudiated by the very man whose name they have been using to give respectability to their purposes, and it is timely, therefore, to hang Chalmers on the wall to keep them company.

THE JENNIE CRAMER MURDER. It is now reasonably certain that the Malley boys will not be convicted of the murder of Jennie Cramer. The prosecution has introduced its testimony and the promised "surprises" have not been given. It has been proved fairly that the deceased girl was poisoned-but not that the Malleys poisoned her.

No matter how slight the rebutting evi-healthier land in the world than right here in | dence disclosed by the defense, the jury can-Georgia where the temperate and semi-tropic, not find the Malleys guilty of the murder 'It is clear that James Malley, by the most fiendish force and persistence, despoiled Jennie Cramer of her virtue. The keenest and widest search has failed to show that the giddy and careless girl was else than a maid, until the fatal night at the Malley home stead, when, locked with James Malley in a room to which she had been carried by force, her screams and appeals were so pitiably loud that Blanche Douglass, stealing from her paramour's bed, rapped on the door and warned the poor girl that if she "made such a fuss" she would wake the neighbors. The autopsy proved that within a few days of her death she had been violently despoiled. Having proved this the prosecution have also shown that from this date and for two days previous. Jennie had been with the Malleys and their confederate up to within a few hours of her death. Beyond this, however, they do not go. They cannot prove that the Malleys bought the arsenic with which her life was taken, or administered it.

Indeed, they do not furnish a reasonable motive for murder on the part of the Malleys That James should have poisoned the girl of whom he had been enamored and whose ruin he had just compassed, within a week after he had obtained possession of her body is an unreasonable supposition. Not even the fact tha he was afraid of exposure, and that she had threatened to inform her brother, is enough to have led him to commit a murder under circumstances that would inevitably bring suspicion on himself, and the horrible secret of which should be held by two other people, and one of them a prostitute with whom he and his cousin were connected only by the most casual and mercenary ties. No matter how keenly he feared exposure, he would have turned to fifty alternatives before he would have sought murder-and murder by dozen passionate methods before he would have tried poison.

Balanced against this lack of mature delib eration or inclination on his part that would have led him to murder the unfortunate girl there is the very strongest reason why she should have killed herself. That she appre ciated vastly more deeply than her hab its and appearance indicated, the sanctity of her virtue, is made plain by the fact that she had defended it for years against constant and flattering temptation-holding it as the precious jewel that could not be taken by ove, assaulted by passion, purchased with money, commanded by patronage or stolen by artifice. Having maintained this for years she was at last ruined against her will, and veas she must have confessed in her bitterness of soul, through weakness and compliance of her own. When she went to her home her nother suspecting that all was not right, told her that if she persisted in her present course she must find another home. The poor girl knowing that the worst had already happened, that she was irretrievably disgraced and that her mother's home was shut against her forever, and that she was forbidden like a leper to cross the threshold of her home, turned away-to what? To suicide likelier than to anything else. With her shallow mind-shut out from strong or loving ounsels-dogged by her betrayers, who had ittle other thought than to lead her deeper nto sin-the poor thing could have found no niding place for her shame nearer than the grave, and no rest for her aching heart save in that sleep which comes with death. If she killed herself-and the probabilities are that she did, the Malleys doubtless knew of itdoubtless witnessed her death- and then doubtless carried her body to the beach, hoping that the waves would carry it away forever.

Mr. Bennett, of the Herald, announces to his esteemed contemporaries that the question of penoning Mrs. DeLong occurred to his mind and was settled three years ago, and settled, too, to the comtion of Lieutenant DeLong. Perhap Mr. Bennett thinks this will satisfy his esteemed contemporaries. If so, he doesn't know the stuff out of which his esteemed contemporaries are

Since writing the above I have seen a telegram dated the 15th instant, from Atlanta, Ga., to the Chicago Tribune, published in the Augusta Chronicle and Constitutionalist of the 20th instant, stating that I had telegraphed to the Atlanta convention of independents that I would accept their nomination for governor. It is utterly untrue that I ever sent any such a telegram or authorized it being sent by anybody. Yours,

Nine little independents stood up in a row in Georgia the other day and bravely signed a paper recommending Alexander H. Stephens for governor. What They Think of Dr. Haygood in Cincinanti,

The election of Rev. Atticus W. Haygood, D.D. s one of the new bishops of the Methodist Episcopa hurch South, is significant, and shows that thos olitically liberal-minded southerners, who have politically noeral-misded southerners, who have their faces toward the sunrise, re increasing in number and in strength. Mr. Haygood is one of the advanced liberals, and is the recognized leader of that element in the Southern Methodist church, which favors accepting and profiting by the issues of the war.

Dr. Haygood is the author of "Our Brother in Black," the strongest plea for the education and fair treatment of the negro that has yet been written by any one in the south, the publication of which was an event of historic interest. This book was favorably received by the progressive southerners, while by the conservatives it was condemned. It is is so far in advance of many, if not most of the leaders of the southern Methodist church, that his elevation to the Episcopacy was very doubtful. His election will form an important epoch in Methodist history in the agent.

Josiah did you say?
Was that what you were talking of
To Brown the other day?
At a hawair.

At a bargain, well it may be, But no comfort, I am sure, Have you or I experienced Since we became land poor.

How oft I've thought, Josiah,
Of that little piece of ground,
We owned just twenty years ago
Down on Long island Sound;
When you used to draw the produce,
For the farmers far and wide,
To the vessels lying anchored Down by the water side. I think I see old Dobbin,

So we joined the moving tide.

And the people call us squatters
On the lone prairies wide. And though acre after acre, You have added to our store Life's comforts now are fewer Than they ever were before. I saw old Dobbin pass this mo With slow and weary page.

I seemed to read the mute appeal, For rest and care once more,
For rest and care once more,
And again I saw the white waves break.
Upon the pebbly shore.
Our lives are a true counterpart,
Of some lone, restless wave,
That never may know peace or rest
On this side of the grave.

You say the place is building up, And land is on the rise, The western farmers courage show Cease from rash speculation. Rather set our house in order

For a new and better life.
You will wish ere long, Josiah,
You had took life stow and sure,
For there's no mortal half so wretched
As he who is land poor. FINANCIAL PACTS.

"The first was made in 1847 and the last was made in 1866. They were made to stephen Elliott, Jr. who was then bishop. The vestry desired to sell or encumber the lot and to apply the proceeds to finishing the new church. They requested the bishop, as trustee, to agree to sell some part of the lot or to encumber the whole of it for that purpose. This the bishop declined to do until some months ago when he offered to encumber the new church and the ground on which it stands for an amount sufficient to prepare the building for occupation. This was not satisfactory to the vestry and in pursuance of the advice of counsel they applied for a charter incorporating directors, wardens and the vestrymen. Since then they have claimed that the trust as to both lots had terminated, and that the corporation of the parish had the right either to sell or encumber. This they proposed to do by issuing bonds to the amount of ten thousand dollars secured by a lien on the entire property. It is the issue of these bonds and the creation of this lien that the bishop seeks to enjoin. The bill came on for trial before the court not yesterday when, after argument heard, the court held that the incorporation of the directors, wardens and vestrymen was an incorporation of the parish, and that that corporation, upon its creation, took the title to the parish lot and terminated the trust as to that lot, and so holding refused the injunction prayed for in reference to that lot. The court held that the other lot on which the new church stands belonged to the diocese and that the title to the trusteed in the corporation of the bishop was not the trustee for the diocese, and could not maintain the bill. The injunction was therefore

Where everything was well received and so many performances encored, it would be invidious to particularize. Mr. O'Donnelly's organ playing was much admired. Mr. Toy was thrice encored, singing in response the "Magnet and the Charm," from Patience, and "Call Her Back and Kiss Her," "Mynn Her Von Dunck" and "Ever be Happy," with Miss Cady's obligato solo were charmingly rendered and the latter encored, and the glee, "Come Dorothy," as usual, brought down the house. But the feature of the evening was the playing of Miss Hahr in response to the first encore played wille Pope's imitation of a music box. In the six-hand arrangement on two pianos, steadied by Miss Hahr at the organ, the precision, light, and shade, and artistic excellence of the pupils, as well as Miss

Meeting of the Directors Last Night—The Library to be Opened on Sunday Afternoons.

A meeting of the directors of the Young Men's. Library association was held last night for the purpose of installing the newly elected officers. There were eleven members of the board present. The new officers were all on hand with the exception of Mr. Joseph Thompson, Jr., and were installed. The following is a list of the officers elected at the late election: President, Hoke Smith: vice-president, Charles E. Harmon; secretary, Alexander C. King; treasurer, D. C. Watson; directors, Elies Haiman, Jack W. Johnson, S. F. Parrot, Joseph Thompson, Jr. It was found that within the last few days about ix hundred members have been added to the lists. An important measure passed last night was the doption of a resolution providing for keeping the ibrary open from two p. m. to nine p. m. on Sun-

Yesterday Fulton county prison furnished the following additions to the convict force of the state, the prisoners being those convicted at the late term of the superior court. They were all taken in charge by a guard and distributed among the camps of the state: Charles Brown goes one year for an attempt to commit burglary, and five years for committing burglary. Joe Burton goes one year for burglary; Henry Clark gets two years for cattle stealing; Dick Stephens gets four years for simple larceny; Wesley Barnes goes for three years for shooting at another. John Groves gets three years for burglary. George Thomas will serve seven years for assault with intent to murder. Ben Grant allas James Kirkpatrick, goes up for three years for forgery, and Green Battle will be gone five years for robbery. As the term of the court is not yet ended it is safe to say that there will be more to follow.

or, received the following dispatch from one of his assistants:

WILMINGTON, N. C., May 23.—Captain John Frey, post-office inspector, Atlanta, Ga.: Near Blader-boro, N. C., this morning I caused the arrest of Charles T. Butler, who robbed that office last Saturday night and fied with a registered letter. We were in search of him all night and at daylight, before capture, he held two of us in abeyance with his pistol until Deputy Marshallowff and myself flanked him and selzed him. The fugitive begged for mercy and made a full confession. He waived an examination this afternoon before Commissioner E. H. Quigg, in Wilmington, and was committed to jail in default of bail. Butler says he intends to plead guilty at the next term of the United States court at Raleigh. He is a white boy of 19, being a hardened, fearless fellow, who a short time since robbed his father and brother. The citizens of Bladerboro rejoice over this capture.

pe day or a bushel an hour. First dried perfectly in an hour. The machine at first sight resembles a small stationary engine somewhat. It is about five feet high, and is made of sheet iron. Near the bottom is a fire-box. The smoket's conducted through pipes, and after making a circuit goes out by the top. Inside the dryer are a series of wire bottomed pans, on which the fruit very quickly and in an unequaled manner. It dries all fruits, making no distinction between apples, peaches, pears, blackberries, or even potatoes, corn or other vegetables. It is a well read to the driver and fruit died in evaporators are greatly superior to those dried by the old process. They sel, for four or five times as much and there is no reason why every farmer and fruit grower should not take advantage of this and make more money out of their fruit. The driers are cheap. One that dries ten bushels per day sells for fifty dollars. Colonel J. S. Newman is agent for the machine, and will jake wit to the fruit growers to morrow. The baking powers of the machine are so perfect that a large turkey can readily be baked in it.

EXTRA FINE RESIDENCE Lot. ONE OF THE BEST ON THE MARKET. ON Thursday afternoon, May 25th, 1882, at 5 o'clock, I will sell on the premises, to the highest bidder, a very choice residence lot on Pryor street, adjoining the residence of Major Bowie, as per plat to be had at my office. The lot lies beautifully and sufficiently elevated above the sidewalk to make it pleasant. To any business man on the south side, wishing a first-class residence lot, this spot of ground commends itself in every particular. It is close to churches, schools, passenger depot, new court house, Kimball house and Whitehall street stores. It is one of our best istreets, in the midst of a high-toned neighborhood with first-class surroundings, permanently established. This lot will bear, and is deserving of, very fine improvement. The purchaser of this lot will get a gilt edge piece of reality, and no mistake. Terms: One-half cash, balance in twelve months, with 8 per cent. interest.

rian Assembly on the Ques ion of Fraternal Re-lations With the Northern Church-Dr. Girardeau's Great Defense.

faces of the members as they slowly entered and took their seats. The debate of the day previous had recalled all the controversial ire of the past two and a half decades, and threw into striking juxtaposition the old era and the new-the men who were at the fore in 1861-'5, such as Farris, Girardeau and Brown, and the men who are now coming fresh on the field, such as Tenney, Bittenger and Leyburn. This point was touched upon by Mr. Tenney in the opening speech, and was eloquently met by Dr. Girardeau, whose plea for the right of old men to express their views rivalled the reply of Pitt to Walpole when accused of the crime of youth. The debate continued throughout the session, and was enlivened by the revelation that the action of the southern church about slavery, which has been the cause of so much angry crimination was written and carried through by Dr. David Wills, now a loyal member of the northern retraction, and they refuse to give it, and the retraction, and they refuse to give it, and the retraction, and they refuse to give it, and the retraction, and they refuse to give it, and the retraction, and they refuse to give it, and the retraction, and they refuse to give it, and the retraction, and they refuse to give it, and the retraction, and they refuse to give it, and the retraction, and they refuse to give it, and the retraction, and they refuse to give it, and the retraction, and they refuse to give it, and the retraction, and they refuse to give it, and the retraction, and they refuse to give it, and the retraction, and they refuse to give it, and the retraction, and they refuse to sequently accused to acquit us of this charge was greeted with cheers and the waving of handkerchiefs, showing the popular approval of a deliberate act declaring us schismatics. To go before them now unasked would be a confession. Dr. Pitzer—At the Baltimore assembly in 1873 it was declared that "all action touching the southern assembly is declared null and void, and we have confidence in their Christian charges and the waving of handkerchiefs, showing the popular approval of a deliberate act declaring us schismatics. To go before them now unasked would be a confession. Dr. Pitzer—At the Baltimore assembly in 1873 it was declared that "all action touching the southern assembly is declared action acquit us of this charge was greeted with the cause of some action of a deliberate action acquit us of the provided action acquit us of the provided action acquit us of the provided action acquit us of the met by Dr. Girardeau, whose plea for the church and a chaplain in the army. Divine services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Pitzer, of Washington, and consisted of the 71st psalm, prayer by Mr. Flanniken, the 40th hymn, prayer by Rev. Mr. Duffee, and the 57th hymn. An overture was presented from the Montgomery presbytery asking that the standards should be written in elegant English. An overture from West Texas called attention to the failure in the promised supply of evangelists.

from West Texas called attention to the failure in the promised supply of evangelists. Dr. Lane, of Athens, offered an important paper relative to the education of ministers, regarding the course of studies, etc., which he desired placed upon consideration for the next general assembly. B. F. Wilcox was announced as a new commissioner. The report of the special committee on Sabbath schools was read by Dr. Stacey, of Newnan. It recited that some thirty Sabbath school bodies had been addressed, as well as the leading church assemblies, urging action in favor of recited that some thirty Sabbath school bodies had been addressed, as well as the leading church assemblies, urging action in favor of suitable Sunday legislation by congress, with a view to closing the mails and prohibiting railroad travel. Many favorable replies had been received, while others, though in favor of such legislation, did not assent to the idea of political action. Others still were of opinion that existing legislation was fully up to public opinion, and that what was now wanted was a higher education of that opinion. The report was referred to a new committee consisting of Rev. J. F. Arbuthnot, chairman, Rev. J. R. Graham, Roger Martin, B. F. Hall and T. J. Kirkpatrick.

The case of the Presbyterian church against W. S. Turner, which has been before the Georgia public so long, has found its way into the assembly. Dr. Lefevre from the judicial committee in charge of the case made a report reciting that there were in the matter so many issues, so many points for which no precedent existed, and the allegations were so complicated and intermingled, that the committee had decided to recommend a commission, under the laws of the church, which consist of twenty-seven, to hear the cause and pass upon its merits.

mend a commission, under the laws of the church, which consist of twenty-seven, to hear the cause and pass upon its merits. He asked for immediate consideration. The assembly decided to raise the commission, which was organized as follows: Ministers, Rev. Messrs. Pratt, Palmer, Coit, Lunsford, Wallace, Martin, Bradley, Kerr, Tenney, Bittenger, Graham, Gordon, Eloan, Woods—14; and Messrs. Roberts, Marquis, Allen, Adair, Hill, Fairley, Brown, Tinley, Hall, McSween, Mason, Flanniken and Enderle.

niken and Enderle.

THE SPECIAL ORDER
being the Question of sending delegates to the assembly now in session at Springfield, Illinois, was taken up. Mr. Tenney was the first to obtain the floor. He remarked that the opposition to fraternity seemed to come from the venerable fathers of the church. They have been in the ecclesiastical warfare of the past, and like the heroes of the military arena, they like to fight their battles o'er again. By rejecting this report we will not necessarily lay these we will not necessarily lay these venerable brethren on the shelf. But we, who are younger, are tired of the strife. We know all the facts in the case, and do not need a continued rehearsal of them here. We all desire traternal relations, to live and act with the pregnant present. By rehearsing the quarrels of bygone years we but destroy all hope of the future. We need the material aid which fraternity would bringus. Asking for favors on the one hand and refusing fellowfor favors on the one hand and refusing fellow-ship on the other, is about the most incon-sistent thing we can do, and that we are doing every day. Mr. Leyburn referred to the venera-ble brethren who had been loading up for this occasion. He wanted the "reasons" stricken out of the report and then he wanted the whole bill rejected and in place of it the adoption of Mr. Tenney's substitute. If it is wrong to meet them in the assembly it is wrong to meet them in conference. It was wrong to meet them in conference. It was rrect to say that no retraction ever been made by the northern mbly. The declaration of that body in assembly. The declaration of that body in 1876, that none of its acts were to be con structured as "impugning on the Christian character" of our church, was broad enough Dr. Farris admitted that the defeat of frater ity in the northern assembly was due to the ild war horses. Have not these same old war norses (indicating Dr. Farris), defeated the ame measure in our arena. These same old ar horsesMr. Boggs-I rise to a point of order. The

Mr. Leyburn resumed—There are other Christian conferences that may bleed if this advance be not made. This is a new the dawning day and leave the night behind is. Mr. Collier, of Virginia, offered the following day and leave the night behind is. wing as an additional "reason" to be adde the report:

to the report:

"A fourth reason—Recognizing the obligation to do unto others as we would that others should do unto us,' we hereby express our willingness to disavow any and all acts on our part, past or present, of which rightful complaint may be made, deemed by our northern prethern derogatory or offensive to them, and o signify our willingness cheerfully to exert ur best efforts in clearing the way of all disculties to tull fraternal correspondence.

our best efforts in clearing the way of all discutties to full fraternal correspondence. And until such expressions shall be mutual, raternal relations are not desirable."

Dr. Brown, chairman of the committee on foreign correspondence, referred to the charge made yesterday that some persons assumed to themselves a peculiar guardianship in thurch affairs. He took no guardianship extensive the advanced much every Christian. ept such as devolved upon every Christian inister. We are not dealing with individ-als—we are dealing with the authoritative oice of the church as spoken through its as embly. The fact that we have been wounded voice of the church as spoken through its as sembly. The fact that we have been wounded in the house of our friends makes the wound all the more painful. The insult of a trifler we do not regard, but the deliberate itigma put upon us by the northern astembly is hard to forget. Fraternal relations would in time lead to organic union. It has been said that we have in practice fraternal relations now. If that be so, why this anxiety for a mere shadow? The north would take as a surrender. That we will never do. lave we any rights which a white man is bound to respect? We have been wronged. That wrong has never been rectified. The borthern assembly has declared us guilty of damnable blasphemy." They are still waving the bloody shirt. Mr. Bettinger inquired to the duty of Christian forgiveness. Dr. brown said he would come to that after while. We surrendered everything at Baltimore except our honor. Meeting in official intercourse is not fraternity. Because you how to a man on the street he is not necessarily admitted into your home circle. They cannot remove a stigma from us unless they remove it from those who went before us. Declarations for the present will not atone for the past. If a man call your mother a hard name, reflecting on her chastity, and should subsequently come to you and say she was a good woman "at present" would that satisfy you? I can never, with my voice, bury the question in a dishonored grave. Dr. Girardean criticised the remarks made about the attitude of the old men in this matter. It is did not know that the possession of gray lears did not know that the possession of gray hairs was a crime. At first he was disposed to strike out the "reasons," but since the debate has taken such a wide range he had changed his views. It is now too late to strike out. The whole question must now be met. Church whole question maist now be met. Church councils were fallible, but decisions judicially reached must be carefully dealt with. To send delegates to Springfield now would be a confession of wrong on our part. The Northern church charged us with schism. We ask them for a retraction, and they refuse to give it, and the charge still stands against us. Their refusal

Dr. Girardeau—What did they mean by those words? If we were schismatics in the past, are we not schismatics now? And would not the same censure apply to us now as then? They called us "heretics and blaspheners" because our doctrines toward slavery were in "because our doctrines toward slavery were in "because our doctrines toward slavery were in consonance to Bible teachines and the Old school standards, Mr. Bittinger—Was that declaration of the northern assembly not made after the southern assembly had declared its mission to be to "conserve" slavery, and as an answer to it?

Dr. Pitzer—By Dr. Girardeau's permission, I will answer that question, as I desire to get the matter correctly before the house. The charge of blasphemy was never made against the southern assembly. Referring to a previous action of the southern assembly at Columbus, the southern assembly. Referring to a previous action of the southern assembly at Columbus, Georgia, "the system of negro slavery in the south is a divine institution—an ordinance of God—and that it is the peculiar duty of the southern churches to conserve the institution of slavery" the northern assembly declared such "doctrine" to be not only heresy but blasphemy. It was never applied to the people or to the assembly.

Dr. Lefevre—And the author of that declaration is now himself a minister of the northern church. His name is Wills.

Dr. Graham—When first charged that such

Dr. Graham—When first charged that such a declaration was on our records the people refused to believe it, and it was disavowed as refused to believe it, and it was disavowed as soon as it was possible to do so.

Dr. Brown also gave a history of the paper and its subsequent disavowal.

Dr. Girardeau resumed—We have been constrained by brute force to give up the institution of slavery, but are we to give up the doctrine because of that. They pronounced us traitors who deserved to be hanged. Dead our confederacy may be but are we prepared our confederacy may be, but are we prepared to stand upon the graves of our dead boys and admit that they were traitors?

A voice—Never!

Dr. Girardean—The principles of 1861 we hold now as then. Our present character is our past. If we send delegates north they will take it as an indication that we are ready our past. If we send delegates north they will take it as an indication that we are ready will take it as an indication that we are ready to be engulfed in northern sentiment. It has been said that politicians are shaking hands over the bloody chasm—why not the church. Will the church be the last to yield in the fight The confederacy is dead, and men will not stand up for a dead issue—there are living causes to attend to. Is our church dead? Is the cause of our church, too, a lost cause? Are we to act as if she had no life? When I was in prison with Dr. Farris, together with 2,000 confederate officers while there was a man in the field to uphold while there was a man in the field to uphold the confederacy we refused to take the oath of allegiance. One officer who did so was kicked from one end of the prison to the other. But when at last the last flag was furled in defeat, we debated still whether we should take the oath or still refuse and die. It was decided that we owed duties to the living. It was alead government. But here living. It was a dead government. But here is a living church. If it were a question of organic union I would fight to the last ditch. Fraternal relations will be to the last ditch. Fraternal relations will be used as a lever for organic union, and before ten years that question will be before this assembly as this one now is.

Dr. Lane, of Athens, had great respect for his venerable brethren, Dr. Brown and Dr. Girardeau, nevertheless he did not share their fears or views. The report did not go far enough for him. He was fully and uneenough for him. He was fully and unequivocally in favor of fraternal relations. Bury the dissensions of the past so deep that the hand of resurrection cannot reach them. Are we by being citizens of the United States casting reproach upon our confederate dead. Long may the north and the south be true to the banner which is now their common heritage. He went on to illustrate that fraternity would be no reflection upon either the past or the present. r the present.

The assembly then adjourned until 9 a.m.

Stealing Meat.

Sometime during Monday night a thief entered Mr. Stephen Walker's meat house next to his residence on Vine street, and stole about two hundred pounds of meat. Late Monday evening Mr. Walker locked the door to the meat house and the thief effected an entrance by breaking the lock. After securing the meat the thief loaded it upon a wagon and drove away. The wagon was tracked to Hunter street, but there all traces of the thief were lost.

Early yesterday morning as a Mrs. Monroe, who resides on Tattnall street, was attempting to cross the railroad on Whitehall street, she was struck by an engine and knocked several feet. The accident was due to the fact that the approaching engine was hidden from Mrs. Monroe's view by a long freight train, which detained her some minutes, and behind which she attempted to make the crossing. A Mean Trick. Some person or persons, either thoughtless or heartless, or probably both, yesterday morning succeeded in tying a tin can to a small dog's tail and then turned him loose. Of course the tattoo played upon the ground frightened the dog and a rapid run down Decaute street was the result. The string which catur street was the result. The string which connected the dog's tail and the tin can was so short that the can struck the dog's hind legs nearly eyery step he took. These licks were so hard and frequent that they resulted in two broken legs for the poor dumb brute.

Almost a Fatal Wound.

Lincoln Thompson, a fourteen year old colored boy, was stabbed by Ed Rushiah, a ther youthful moke, near the corner of Hunter and Mangum siregts, vesterday morning. The two boys were walking along Hunter street, conversing about the cotton exposition, when Rushian called Thompson a liar. This led to a fight, during which Rushian drew his knife and stabbed Thompson twice,

WHAT WE EAT. Glance at the Atlanta Market and What is There t

Mulberries are in the market at ten cents a pint. They are miserable looking little ber-ries, and have a poor sale. They are in striking contrast to the bright, red strawber-ries which sit alongside of them on the fruit and vegetable stands. The strawberries are about as cheap as the mulberries are, being from twenty to twenty-five cents a quart. While the berry subject is up it may not be out of place to mention that blackberries will soon be here. Dewberries have already been the market. Peaches are expected soond some few favored ones have already ha watermelons. Almost before we are aware of t we will be in the midst of the fruit season.

it we will be in the midst of the fruit season. As for vegetables, that man fares best who has his own garden. Vegetables such as are offered for sale now are unbearably had. There has not been a tempting array of vegetables on the stalls in the memory of this reporter. There are some Irish potatoes that sell at fifty cents a peck, and a few other vegetables at prices that have not changed for a week or two. There are plenty of eggs at from 15 to 20 cents and chickens at from 25 to 40 cents for hens and 20 to 30 cents for young chickens. Butter is more plentiful and sells at from 25 to 40 cents according to quality. Very fair country butter goes at 30 cents, but the best cannot be bought for less than forty. In the fish market yesterday there was nothing of any conse-ence. A few barrels of whiting and black Catoosa Springs. So well known are the above springs to the seekers of health and pleasure that an announcement of their being opened at an early day is sufficient. The chemical composition of its waters and their valuable qualities highly recommend them. They are in the Piedmontregion of Cherokee, Ga., and within few minutes ride of the Western Atlanta a few minutes ride of the Western & Atlantic railroad. Extra exertions have been made this season by the proprietors to make the place pleasant and comfortable. The buildings are being put in thorough repair, painted, plastered, etc. The grounds are being arranged by landscape gardners, and a rifle range established. These springs deserve a generous patronage.
